PREFATORY NOTE.

There were 15,212 veterans of the Civil War surviving in Massachusetts on April 1, 1915, according to the list presented herewith, which has been compiled in accordance with chapter 25, Resolves of 1915, a decrease of 12,834, or 45.76 per cent, in the approximately<sup>1</sup> ten-year period which elapsed since the last preceding State census and when the number of veterans then reported as surviving and resident in Massachusetts was 28,046. The resolve under which the preparation of this list was compiled is as follows:—

Resolved, that the director of the bureau of statistics is hereby authorized and directed to transmit to the Department of Massachusetts, Grand Army of the Republic, three hundred copies of an alphabetical list, by cities and towns, of those persons recorded by the bureau in the decennial census of nineteen hundred and fifteen as having served in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States during the civil war. Any expenses incurred under the provisions of this resolve shall be paid out of the appropriation for taking the decennial census. [Approved March 24, 1915.]

One of the inquiries on the population schedules for males in the Decennial Census was for the purpose of ascertaining the number of veterans of the several wars in which the United States has been engaged who were living in Massachusetts on the Census Day, April 1, 1915, and for each Civil War veteran so reported, the census enumerator was required to make out a special card schedule giving the service record. A total of 13,525 veterans of the Civil War was in this manner reported to the Census Office, but in order that what was deemed to be the spirit of the above resolve might be complied with, namely, that as complete and accurate a list of such veterans as possible be prepared, it was considered desirable to have the names as returned by the census enumerators checked with those appearing on the assessors' lists of veterans exempt from taxation in each city and town of the Commonwealth; this was done by forwarding the census list to the assessors throughout the Commonwealth and thus, with the willing co-operation of these officials, and from information received from other sources the names of 1,687 veterans were added to those reported by the census enumerators, making a total of 15,212 whose names appear in this list. In the further interest of accuracy, the names of veterans who were returned as living on April 1, 1915, but of whose death, between that date and the preparation of this list, knowledge has come to the Census Office, are indicated with an asterisk (*).

It should not be inferred that the 1,687 additional names of Civil War veterans obtained from the assessors necessarily represent additions to the male population above the whole number of persons actually enumerated in the original census canvass, for while the enumerators may have failed to find and to return some of these persons as a part of the population, many, if not most of them, were undoubtedly enumerated in the first instance in the census and are included in the population totals of the several cities and towns, but were not definitely designated on the census schedules as veterans of the Civil War.

The list of names, classified by municipalities, alphabetically arranged, is preceded by summaries showing by counties, by cities, and by towns the number of Civil War veterans living therein as of May 1, 1905 and as of April 1, 1915, with the increase or decrease, from which it will be noted that, for the counties, Middlesex had the largest number, namely, 2,983; Essex, the next largest number, 2,495; and Suffolk, the next largest number, 2,449. The city having among its inhabitants the largest number of Civil War survivors was Boston, with 1,725; the city with the next largest number was Chelsea, where the Soldiers' Home is located, with 631; and the third largest number was found in Worcester, with 556. The town having the largest number was Marblehead, with 127; the town having the second largest number was Weymouth, with 118; and the third largest number was found in Danvers and Leominster, each having 96. The total number of survivors living in the cities was 8,351, and the total number living in the towns was 6,861.

The preparation of this list from the original census schedules, which involved a very considerable amount of verification and correspondence, was entrusted to the immediate supervision of Mr. Charles Thompson, who has been in the employ of the Bureau of Statistics for twenty-five years as a Special Agent, and is himself a veteran of the Civil War, and I wish to record my appreciation of the faithful and painstaking care with which he has performed this task.
